

EVERY JOB MATTERS

DEFENDING JOBS ON LONDON UNDERGROUND

London Underground's plans

- 953 jobs to be axed
- every ticket office to close by 2015
- total restructure of station staffing
- threat of further cuts to come

In every area, the company is either cutting jobs or preparing to cut jobs.

It is deliberately under-staffing our workplaces, attacking our conditions and 'reinterpreting' our agreements. It wants to replace skilled workers with unreliable automation.

This is not aimed at improving our Tube but at saving millions of pounds following the government's 12.5% cut to Transport for London's funding.

RMT has called on London Underground Ltd and the Mayor to abandon these reckless plans.

We will be working with other trade unions and the wider community to oppose these staffing cuts.

RMT has made its opposition to staffing cuts clear to London Underground Ltd over a long period, but the company's well-paid Directors have not listened to us so far.

With LUL starting a 90-day consultation period on 21 November, it could impose these cuts as early as February.

So we need to take industrial action in an effort to make the company see sense.

RMT's Executive has agreed to pursue a high-profile campaign and to ballot all our London Underground members for strikes and action short of strikes.
